NINTH MAN WAS BOTT

When the Wheelmen Reached
Pittsburg.

HE FELL BY THE WAYSIDE

But With Characteristic Nerve Continued
When Better—Incidents of a Long
Trip—Jewell and Rex at Home—Found the Work too Much for Them.

The local wheelmen who entered the Buffalo-Pittsburg road race have returned home, and give their experiences in one of the most important contests of its character in bicycle history.

William Bott, who finished ninth in the race, made a splendid record for himself, keeping the winner in close distance much of the time. He had not trained to a point required by such hard work, and discovered it before he had been on the road very long. He made good time to Greenville, but from there his progress was a series of spurts. When near Beaver Falls he became deathly sick. The hard work had told on him to such an extent that he could no longer stay by his wheel. Then he ran into the gutter, and seeing an inviting field decided to rest. For two hours he lay there as sick as anyone cares to be, but he was undaunted, and mounting his wheel continued on his way.

At the checking point, he was met by Charley Hall, who lost no time in giving him a pace. He had ridden far and hard, but was fresh enough to pass other riders on the road, and do his best for Pittsburg. After Sewickley was reached it was a hard fight, but he succeeded in keeping a good pace and ending in splendid time. He had been at his work in the Union pottery until it was almost time for him to start for Buffalo, and had been provided with the help given Williams and the other crack riders would have come down Fifth avenue in Pittsburg in much better condition, although he was by no means a dead man at the finish. He is receiving all sorts of kind words from his friends today. It talking to a News Review reporter about the race Bott said that the roads were in awful condition for riding, the sand being the chief obstacle and delaying the riders frequently. He had the same experiences as many other riders, but was more fortunate than some of them. He punctured his tire before leaving Buffalo, but got it fixed in time to start with the others. He was thrown from his wheel twice in the dark and another time ran over a dog. This accident also caused him a hard fall. Both tires came off his wheel at another point, but he clapped them on again and they stayed in position until Beaver Falls was reached. Bott was in a very weak condition when he arrived at Beaver Falls having left Greenville in the morning without anything to eat. He found that the "many kindnesses" shown according to some of the newspapers did not extend to eatables, and he at least was not troubled with a full stomach. At Beaver Falls he was given a sandwich, and says it made him feel like a new man. He was so much refreshed that he passed two men and made himself ninth in the race. Bott finished 15 minutes ahead of the time limit and won a pair of tires and a time medal. He is satisfied that if he had had pace makers along the road like Williams and some of the others he would have finished at least three hours sooner. He says it is the belief among the wheelmen that Williams cut across two plowed fields and saved 15 or 20 miles. Bott was close behind Williams at Greenville and the winner evidently had some unknown advantage after that. Bott is working, and feeling in good shape today with the exception of a bad cold he contracted before he left Buffalo.

Robert Jewell, another of the riders, told his experiences today. He found the job a bigger one than he expected, the dust and sand making him sick and at Erie he gave up the struggle. William Rex was about an hour and a half behind Jewell and he could go no farther than Erie. Rex was grieved to hear of his father-in-law's accidental death and expressed deep regret that the family had been unable to find him by telegraph. Jewell said today that he had no other excuse to offer than that he gave out completely and nature compelled him to drop out of the race. Neither Jewell nor Rex had sufficient training, although Jewell made unusually good time to Erie and Rex did not fall below the average. Jewell and Rex came to Rochester and joined Bott on the midnight train for home and Jewell is working at Laughlin's pottery today. All the men had accidents which would have stopped less determined riders, but the only seriously injured man was C. G. Merrill, of Cleveland, who was put to bed at Beaver Falls. Merrill's injuries are such that it is believed his riding days are over.

It is quietly whispered about that the result of this race will be a 100 mile contest between two of the three local riders in it, but nothing definite can be learned.

The Press yesterday published a fair likeness of Bott in its report and did not seem much surprised that he had won a place. They probably expected it as the Liverpool man was in last year's race, and stuck it out the entire distance.

HYMAN ONCE MORE.

Barnet and Browarsky in Squire's Court.
Other Cases in Local Courts.

It has been some time since Hyman Browarsky has had a legal summons served upon him, but he got a pair of them Saturday.

Hyman Barnett has been clerking for Browarsky for some time, but recently the pair had a fall out and Barnett resigned. Saturday he called on Squire Travis and entered suit against Browarsky for $80, claimed due for wages. The case was set for hearing on Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

George Peach & Son also had a little bill against Hyman and presented it in the same court. The amount sued for is $1.40 and the case will be heard on Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Hyman came over to Squire Travis' office immediately upon having the summons served in the two cases, and brought his books along to show that he didn't owe a person in the world. The squire advised him not to try the case until its time, and he went away downcast.

Only two cases came up in mayor's court Saturday night and both were drunks. James Penny was on a spree and raising particular Cain in the region of the Horn switch Saturday night. Officer Jennings arrested him and locked him up. He was fined $6.00 by Mayor Gilbert and released. James Rasby was drunk when Officer Badgely found him in the Diamond Saturday night. He was put in jail for a short time to sober up, and was released without being fined.

Dan Cochran still occupies a cell in the city jail owing to the lack of the necessary cash to get him out.

Johnson and Lewis, the negroes who fought in the circus tent Saturday and were fined $6.00 each were released in time to take part in their sideshow performance later in the evening.

Not the First Bloomers.

According to the memory of Jacob Shenkle, the News Review was in error Saturday when it stated that the first bloomers ever seen in the city had appeared on Sixth street late Friday night. The gentleman recalls that in the fifties two ladies, one of whom he thinks, is still a resident of the city, decided to adopt the costume, and came out one day in the regulation style. The people, however, laughed them to scorn; they could go nowhere without hearing some remark not calculated to increase their admiration for the baggy trousers. After a short trial they gave it up, and the bloomers became nothing more than an unpleasant memory.

Meeting in Franklin Square.

Reverend Whitehead, of the Methodist Protestant church, went to Franklin Square early last evening, accompanied by a number of his congregation, and held a short prayer service. Excellent music was rendered, and a large number of persons gathered about the little band. At the close of the service they marched back to the church, singing as they went. Several persons who had been attracted by the music dropped into the procession.

Hollow Rock Services.

Several hundred people went from this city yesterday to attend the Hollow Rock holiness meeting, and there saw a great crowd made up of representatives of every town for miles around. It was a large crowd, and as the day was not oppressively hot it was spent most pleasantly. A large number of persons have been converted there during the past few weeks and yesterday added many more to the list. Several persons from this city are among the latest converts.

Coming From England.

Mrs. Captain Galley and Mrs. McCloskey, of the Salvation Army, landed in New York, Saturday, on their way home from England. They are expected here this afternoon. A reception will be tendered them at the barracks tonight.

A GREAT BIG LABOR DAY

Will be the Celebration Next Week.

PROGRAM AS IT IS PREPARED

The Parade Will March in all of the Principal Streets and There Will be Many Interesting Contests at the Park. A List of Events With the Prizes and Who Give them.

The program for Labor day is complete and provides any quantity of amusement for the large number of persons who look forward to an occasion of enjoyment.

The parade, in charge of Marshal Stewart, will form on Fifth street, west of Market, at 9 o'clock, and without delay take up the line of march as follows: Fifth to Broadway, to Sixth, to Jefferson, to Market, to Second, to Broadway, to Fourth, to Washington, to the Diamond. There street cars will be in waiting, and the crowd can go to Columbian Park where a long list of amusements and athletic contests will delight the people. The union having the largest number of men in line, proportionate to its membership, will first be presented with a silk flag given by Alvin H. Bulger. Sixteen men from Harker's pottery will contest in a tug of war with an equal number from Laughlin's each winner receiving a necktie given by Steinfeld & Viney. A bicycle race for boys under 16 will be next, the prizes being a $5 sweater from Crosser-Ogilvie and a pair of $2 shoes from the Star Bargain. The third race of 100 yards is for eight men, each one to carry a sack of flour given by Geon Bros. The winner will get four sacks, the next three and the third one. A potato race for a gold headed umbrella given by Joseph Bros. will be next, followed by the ladies' half mile bicycle race, the prizes of which are a cashmere dress pattern from the Busy Bee and a cut glass perfume bottle given by the Bon Ton. The winner in the 100 yard amateur foot race will be rewarded by a plush rocker from Hard's and the next man with a box of cigars given by George Peach. A three legged race has but one prize—one month's barbering by Carl Schnepf, while the first man in the mile bicycle race will get a bicycle lamp from W. O. Hamilton, the second a pair of bicycle shoes from G. Bendheim.

Those who enter the fat man's race must weigh 200 or over, and the winner will get a trunk given by William Erlanger, the second one receiving a box of cigars from W. J. Locke. Crook & McGraw give a rocker to the winner of the half mile race, W. H. Gass presents the second man with a pair of $5 shoes, and James E. Orr hands to the third a smoking set. A half mile pony running race will give the winner a saddle and the second one a bridle and whip, while the 2:20 trot ends the program. At 5 o'clock the best lady waltzer will get a handsome cape presented by People's store, and the next will wear a gold ring from Kerr & McKinley's. Other events and prizes will be announced on the ground. The committee has decided that entries must be made at Orr's store, Sixth street, on or before next Monday morning at 9 o'clock. Elwell's orchestra of eight pieces will furnish music for dancing from 10:30 in the morning until 10 at night. The program will be carried out as decided by the committees, all the events taking place. Considerable enthusiasm is manifested all over the city, and the day promises to be more enjoyable than the most sanguine anticipated. A great many visitors from out of town are expected to be here, and arrangements will be made to receive them. Wellsville, Salineville, Irondale and Steubenville are expected to contribute their share, while Rochester and the Beaver valley will be here in force.

Two New Ministers.

Reverend McKinley, of Clearfield, Pa., preached two excellent sermons at the First Presbyterian church yesterday. The gentleman is a finished speaker, and a logician whose arguments are clear and comprehensive. He was greeted by two large congregations, and there was a feeling that he is the best minister in the pulpit since the departure of Reverend Marshall. So favorable do the members speak of him that the impression prevails that many would like to see him here permanently. Reverend McKinley is a cousin of Governor McKinley.

It was reported that the church officials were considering the idea of calling a pastor now in Cleveland, but the story is pronounced untrue by those who ought to know.

Reverend Hall, the young man who has been preaching at the Second church in East End, occupied the pulpit in the First Methodist Episcopal church last evening. Although not yet a regularly ordained minister his sermon possessed so many attractive features as to cause general comment from the large congregation present.

LOST THE GAME.

Beaver Was Too Much For Our Ball Players.

The boys who played ball in Beaver last Saturday are sore in body and mind for they lost the game, although they played hard to win.

The odds were against them, Beaver putting up a game that fairly took their breath away. For some reason the boys could not hit the ball, and only got six hits, while Beaver succeeded in getting off with 20. Orr, Myler and Cartwright played as well as the circumstances would permit. The score was 31-4, Beaver making 16 runs in one inning.

Daniels, the pitcher, so well known in this city, is playing great ball for Kansas City. He has been shutting out clubs of that league right along, and occasionally lost, but not so often that it was not a matter of wonder when the battle was lost. His friends here are thinking he will make an enviable name for himself.

In a Fix.

It is related of one young man, who took his best girl riding in the vicinity of West Virginia yesterday, that he started to ford the river with the outfit near the island. When about one-third of the way across the horse fell and the shafts of the carriage broke squarely off. The young man was in a predicament but took the only plan out of it. He got out into the water which came almost to his necktie and waded to this shore where he succeeded in hiring a ferryman to rescue the girl from her unpleasant situation.

Roasting the Races.

The Steubenville Star, a paper which has no use for Wellsville, says that horsemen who took part in the races last week are mad because the purses were cut down. They charge that the association advertised large purses, and when the time came to pay cut them down one-third because the society was in debt. According to the Star the horsemen will never go back.

Did They Fight?

A couple of young men of this city are said to have indulged in a war of words Saturday night and agreed to go to Thompson's hill yesterday to settle differences by a pugilistic contest. It is supposed that the contest was declared off as no bleeding corpse has been brought from the hill and no life and death struggle heard of there.

For Special Instruction.

Doctor Hobbs will leave in a day or two for New York where he will take a course of special instruction in surgery at one of the best institutions in the city. Mrs. Hobbs and the children will probably remain at the home of the lady's parents in Alliance. The doctor expects to return in two months.

May Use Conductors.

It has been rumored for several days that the street railway company would use conductors on Saturday and Sunday of each week and during the nights of the days mentioned. Inquiry at the office of the company develops the fact that it is news around there, although the report is apparently well founded.

A Waterhaul.

The patrol was called to the Dresden pottery Saturday night by the watchman at the plant to arrest a drunken man. The victim of firewater had disappeared, however, and the wagon returned empty.

A Marriage.

Married by Squire Jethro Manley at his residence, Sunday night, Mr. William Heldman and Miss Margaret Smith McLean, both of this city. The young people have the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

Coming to Town.

W. S. Rodgers has removed here with his family from Woodlawn avenue, Cleveland.

R. Shulls has removed to this city from Toronto, his household goods arriving this morning.

A Big Day.

Several of the merchants say that Saturday was the biggest day for business they have had in years. Many of them were compelled to work until after midnight filling orders.

GONE FOR THREE YEARS

So Mrs. Samuel Fisher Wants a Divorce

FROM HER RECREANT SPOUSE

They Were Married at New Lisbon, but the Husband Left a Few Years Afterward—Other News Gleaned From the Court House.

NEW LISBON, Aug. 27.—The number of divorce actions have not been equal to the average of the past years within the last few months, but one came serenely to the front late on Saturday.

The parties are from Rogers, and their marriage seems to have been a mistake from the start. Six years ago Serepta A. Fisher was married to Samuel L. Fisher at the county seat. For three years they lived together, but at the end of that time Samuel decided that the matrimonial yoke was galling, and he could do no better than seek pastures of a greener hue. As a result he left home, and the wife now charges that he has been absent and neglected her. According to her he has neglected his marriage vows, and this is why she wants a divorce. This, with a large number of other cases of a similar nature, will come up during the next term of court.

The will of Sarah J. Peters, late of this city, was filed today and admitted to probate. An order of private sale for the personal property was issued in the estate of the late Henry Seachrist's estate. In the case of Isaac W. Phillips, administrator, versus Isaac W. Phillips et al, deed was ordered made to Martha J. Phillips, the purchaser of the property.

The accounts filed were as follows: John C. Catlett, guardian of Abigail Ross, first account; Louis Bereton, guardian of Henrietta V. Matthews' estate, final account; Emma C. Fuller, executrix of Archie Fuller's estate, first account; Edwin Dutton, executor of Susana Hillman's estate, final account; George W. Long, administrator of Elizabeth Long's estate, final account.

A Church Burned.

Special to the NEWS REVIEW.
NEW LISBON, Aug. 27.—This morning about 4 o'clock the Presbyterian church at this place was destroyed by fire. The loss will amount to quite a sum since the insurance only amounted to $4,000. The cause of the fire lies in spontaneous combustion originating in an old closet, or an electric wire. Every effort to save the structure proved useless.

THE NEWS REVIEW always has more news than other local dailies.

There don't seem to be many Democrats hustling for the congressional nomination in this district.

WHAT A lot of fun the country would have with this district if Coxey should, by the merest accident, be sent to congress. We would be ridiculed worse than the nation has been ridiculing Bloody Bridges Waite and Sarah Yellen Lease.

OUR OPEN GATES.

A little clique of congressmen have made it possible for the anti-anarchist bill introduced by Senator Hill to remain on the shelf for another year, possibly it will stay there for ever. A Democrat named Warner was the principal cause, and he worked with all the power of a devoted disciple of Herr Most to prevent any consideration of the measure in the lower branch. Whether he is working directly in the interest of the anarchist gang who are attempting to gain a foothold in New York, or merely did it because he did little if anything else during the session is left with the public, but there can be no doubt that he did a great thing for the reds. He made it possible for them to swarm from Europe, and as they are being driven from the countries they have cursed in the past they can soon be expected in all our seaport towns. The gates are wide open. They can come and plot and murder as they will. This is a fertile soil. There is no police of Russia nor censorship of France to bother their dreams in free America.

WHEN CONGRESS GOES HOME.

In a few days congress will go home. The last sad rites of this session will be said, while senators and representatives will scatter to their abodes, many to face angry and disgusted constituents, a few to hear words of praise and commendation. Congress has not been kind to the people. For a year it has been speculating upon the misery of the nation, and spreading poverty and distress into once prosperous and happy communities. It has been proving that the standard of American statesmanship has fallen woefully low these past few months, and showing as upon a canvass the inefficiency of Democracy. When once it is home and the people glance about them business will improve, but upon an unsatisfactory basis. Products of farm and workshop will command the price produced by the era of cheap we heard so much about from Democratic press and platform a few years ago, and workmen will be paid accordingly. The financial standard of the great mass of human beings making the nation will be lowered, and indications point to an age of prosperity for hydra-headed monopolies. It remains to be seen what effect the legislation enacted will have upon the country as a whole, and how the people whom it injures most will receive it, but there are few men who have not already well formed opinions. By its vascillating, sluggish policy the Democratic minority in congress has proved itself unequal to grasp and control dangerous conditions, while the noble action of the few Republican members in resisting to the end has endeared them in the public mind.

A DEATH WIND.

It Sweeps Across the Russian Sea of Azov.

1,000 PERSONS PERISHED.

Impossible Yet to Compute the Great Damage Done.

AMERICANS ARE PROBABLY LOST.

Two Different Parties Said to Have Started to Cross the Sea. Members of the American Colony in St. Petersburg Terribly Alarmed. A Fishing Village First Swept Away by the Fearful Storm—The Shallow Waters of the Sea Lashed Into Fury—Fishing Vessels All Sunk—The Path of the Cyclone Eleven Miles Wide. A Number of Steamers Overdue and Are Supposed to Have Gone Down With All Their Passengers—Telegraphic Communication With the Devastated District Almost Entirely Suspended.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 27.—A wind of death. No other name can describe the cyclone that has swept across the Sea of Azov. It will be impossible for days yet to compute the damage done, but it is almost certain that at least 1,000 persons have perished, some by drowning, others by being crushed under falling houses and trees. The excitement is great among the American colony in this city, for it is feared that at least two parties of American tourists were on the Sea of Azov at the time the wind did its deadly work. There has been almost a constant stream of callers at the office of the American minister asking, almost begging for news from Odessa, whence the tourists were to have started on the regulation sight-seeing trip across the Crimea, visiting Sebastopol, Balaklava and other famous battle scenes. The parties were separate, but it is probable that they started within 12 hours of each other, and according to the schedule of these excursions, they would have reached the strait of Kerch just before the storm, thence to go by steamboat north to Berdiansk, where they would take the train back to Odessa.

It is said that the leader of one of these parties had proposed a trip a short distance north from Temrink into the land of the Black Cossacks. If his party branched off in that way they have unquestionably perished, for the hurricane ravaged almost the entire east shore of the sea of Azov.

Everybody is praying that some lucky chance delayed the excursionists, so that they could not reach their embarkment. At a late hour there was still only a general report of the disaster in which to base surmises of the Americans' safety. This report recounts wide havoc.

The wind was first felt at Nogaik, Nogaik is peopled, mostly by fishermen who were out on the water.

When the hurricane had swept out to the north a terrible scene was presented. The village was razed, overturned as if an immense plow had pushed through it. Lying everywhere were women and children, dead or in the last agonies. The shallow waters of the sea of Azov were lashed to such a height that it was plain that every fishing boat must have been sunk.

The cyclone swept on to the northeast after wrecking Nogaik. Its path seems to have been unusually wide, for at Mariopol it devastated the country to a point 11 miles inland and had its outer edge far upon the sea. Mariopol was practically blotted out of existence. Not three houses in 100 are left standing.

It is estimated that over 200 persons perished in this town alone. North of Mariopol the storm seems to have made a sudden turn to the eastward over Dolga Points, its left edge inflicting slight damage to the town of Berdiansk. Here there were unroofed and a dozen persons were killed by falling timbers. Once at sea the storm made its full fury felt.

Of the steamers that touch at the Port of Berdiansk, not one had come in at the hour of the latest report. Grave fears are expressed that every craft in the sea has gone to the bottom and that every passenger is drowned. When the wind swept over the northern end of Azov it took a new course, going southerly along the coast of the land of the Black Cossacks. In turn Elsk and Achuev were ravaged, each town being almost totally destroyed. Telegraphic communication with this district is suspended and it is impossible to learn the extent of the destruction, but at least 1,000 persons must have died on the two shores. The storm, as nearly as can now be learned, seemed to suddenly lose its force near Temrink and passed off with comparative quiet southerly over the Black sea.

LIVES MIRACULOUSLY SAVED.

The Indian Government Rescues People From a Raging Flood.

SIMLA, India, Aug. 27.—Gohna lake which for some time past has threatened to break its bounds and sweep down the valley at the head of which it lies, has broken the dam which controlled the waters. Thousands of tons of water poured through the valley like a cataract, sweeping everything before it. Huge boulders were swept along like pebbles, trees were uprooted and carried on the crest of the flood and villages along the valley were swept out of existence an instant after the roaring torrent of whitened waters struck them.

The rainfall during the monsoon has been noticeably heavy and the lake rose with great rapidity. The percolation at the dam became very heavy and the engineers who examined it decided that its breakage was imminent. To repair it was impossible, and the government therefore took steps to prevent any loss of life when the break came. Elaborate arrangements were made, and when it became known that the dam would go out the people nearest the point of danger were carried by the railways to places of safety.

THE K. OF P. PARADE.

President Cleveland Will Review It To-Morrow.

10,000 KNIGHTS IN WASHINGTON.

Band Being Erected for Senators, Representatives and Members of the Diplomatic Corps—A Move Which May Cause German Legation to Secede.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—President Cleveland has definitely promised to review the grand Knights of Pythias parade to-morrow. A reviewing stand will be erected for him in front of the executive mansion. General Carnahan and his staff will review the parade on horseback at the head of Pennsylvania avenue, near the treasury. A stand is being erected by the treasury for senators, representatives and other government officials and members of the diplomatic corps.

Sunday the Knights got a severe drenching, a hard rain falling a portion of the day.

The officers anticipate that more than the 10,000 Knights, for whom provisions has been made, will be on hand, and General Carnahan has called on the war department to ask for a loan of army tents in case of emergency. Members of the citizens' committee are on duty at the depot to welcome the arrivals, and the high school cadets are officiating as messengers.

One of the most important questions to come before the council will be an attempt to enforce the rule that the ritual shall be given only in the English language. It is said that 150 German lodges in the United States have printed their ritual in the German after making an unsuccessful demand at a meeting in Chicago, 1896, for the repeal of the rule. If there is an attempt made to enforce the law against the German lodges they may secede.

JONES DON'T LIKE THE BILL.

The Arkansas Senator Gives Out a Statement Concerning It.

LITTLE ROCK, Aug. 27.—Senator Jones has given to the press a lengthy statement regarding his work in assisting in the preparation of the tariff bill. He says that when it was ascertained that the bill had to be prepared to suit the views of 43 Democratic senators he consulted the president and the secretary of the treasury, and both advised him to prepare such a bill.

He went to work to accomplish this purpose with the full understanding that such was the course desired by the administration. Senator Hill, he says, was openly hostile to the bill and utterly irreconcilable, and at no time was relied upon as one of the 43 senators whose vote the committee desired to secure in support of the bill.

Senator Jones says the bill is not satisfactory, and that if he could have his own way in preparing it, he would have raised the revenue needed from incomes, whisky, beer and tobacco, and not from sugar or from woolen goods. He says he resisted all these changes with all his power.

Miners Removing Their Tools.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27.—News received from the Massillon coal fields is to the effect that the miners have refused to accept the ultimatum of the operators, which provided that they should resume work today upon a schedule of wages based on the Columbus scale. It is said that many of the miners have removed their tools from the mines, and it is believed that the operators will carry out their intention of resuming work today with non-union men. The miners of the Massillon district, about 3,000 in number, have been on strike since Feb. 17.

Picnic Party Has a Mishap.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 27.—Another fatal runaway accident happened at Greenbottom, 10 miles above here. Van Thornley, a farmer, had prepared to go to a picnic in a large wagon, which was to carry a number of people. A crowd of youngsters climbed into the wagon during Mr. Thornley's momentary absence and the team ran away and smashed the wagon. John Thornley was fatally injured, and George Cartwright and John Clatts have broken bones and serious internal injuries.

Shot Two Brothers.

MEMPHIS, Aug. 27.—In the little town of Pine Tree, William Shaw and Bob Constor, brothers-in-law, had a terrific difficulty over an axe. Shaw shot Constor through the cheek, the ball passing under the tongue. In the meantime Henry Constor, Bob's brother, came running up, it is supposed, to interfere. Shaw seeing Henry coming opened fire on him, shooting him through the stomach, killing him instantly. Shaw escaped.

Won't Stand a Reduction.

ELWOOD, Ind., Aug. 27.—The window glass manufacturers of about 30 towns and cities in the Indiana gas belt have held a meeting and decided to demand a reduction in wages of window glassworkers of 30 per cent. The glassworkers declare they will never submit to this reduction and will stay out rather than accept it. This will throw 9,000 people out of employment and work great hardships.

A Gang of Harass Thieves.

The Chinese Government Will Punish the Murder and Abuse of Missionaries.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The Times to-day publishes a dispatch from Tien Tsin stating that an imperial edict has been issued in connection with the outrages perpetrated on missionaries, and the murder of Rev. The edict condemns the Chinese officers responsible for the good conduct of the troops, and orders that the actual murderers be beheaded. It is further ordered that the chapels which have been destroyed be rebuilt at the expense of the people in the localities where the outrages were committed, and that compensation be paid relatives of Mr. Wylie.

The T'ung IA Ya men or supreme council, and Viceroy Li Hong Chang have expressed deep regret to the British minister because of the outrages.

The German fathers of the Catholic mission at Si Ning Chun, in the southern part of the province of Shang Tung, who were captured by bandits and held for ransom, have been released by the government posse sent in pursuit of the robbers.

The admiralty has issued further orders to the non-commissioned officers belonging to the naval reserve in regard to service with foreign powers. The order is intended to prevent the officers referred to from entering either the Chinese or Japanese service.

The Heavyweight to Fight John Murphy—Smith and Farrell Sign Articles.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Billy Plimmer, the heavyweight champion of the world, and John Murphy, who for years taught the young men of Harvard college how to wield the gloves, have been practically matched. The representatives of both men met at Johnny Eckhardt's and came to a final arrangement by depositing the sum of $250. The match calls for a contest to a finish at 115 pounds at the ring side, for a stake of $2,500 a side.

In the event of no club offering a suitable purse inside of six weeks, the men will agree to settle the battle in private with skintight gloves. James Conry of this city is backing Murphy, and is fully prepared to raise the stake to $3,000 a side. Martin Dawling, the well-known sporting man, is furnishing the money for the Plimmer end.

A Denver dispatch says: Denver Ed Smith and Ed Farrell, who have been talking for a week or two about their ability to annihilate each other, have met and arranged to fight for $5,000 a side. MCKINLEY AT WORK.

He Is Preparing a Great Speech to Be Delivered in Maine.

SOMERSET, Pa., Aug. 27.—Governor McKinley of Ohio is spending two weeks here preparing for the effort of his life in the way of a political speech, to be delivered in Maine on Sept. 8. He has been expected to resent most forcibly and eloquently the repeal of the McKinley law, and the passage of the new tariff bill; but, deaf to all questioning, he absolutely declined to be interviewed.

He is a guest of Abner McKinley, a brother, who lives in New York, but has a summer residence here. There are four ex-congressmen of congress living in Somerset, two of whom McKinley served, but to none of them has he confided his views of the existing tariff situation.

As to Ohio politics this year the governor said: "Campaigns in our state are always interesting. Our people are habituated to lively campaigns. We delight in them, and even with an unimpaired state ticket we will have remarkable and vigorous enthusiasm on the Republican side, of course."

The corresponders here asked: "Governor, I understand that you and President Harrison are to exchange speeches in your respective states; that he will stump Ohio in return, for your work in Indiana. Is that so?"

"Not that I have heard of. No one has consulted me about such an arrangement, but I have understood that General Harrison has said that he will make no political speeches this year save in his own state. That is all I know about it."

Boycotted For Marrying a Mulatto.

FORTORIA, O., Aug. 27.—Rev. Thompson of the Methodist Protestant church of this city has been boycotted for marrying Miss Libbie Hawk, a mulatto. Her father and two brothers are decidedly dark in color. The young lady is particularly bright and intelligent and a leader in the church work. The marriage has caused a profound sensation, and when the congregation learned of it they gave the pastor indefinite leave of absence. Rev. Thompson is about 22 years of age. He is sitting himself for a missionary, and he and his wife expect to leave for the foreign field next year. They will not return to this city.

Horsewhipped by a Woman.

MARIETTA, O., Aug. 27.—For some months the town has been divided between the Olneys and friends of Follet Smith, who live near this city, growing out of a shooting affray which happened some months ago, in which Grove Olney was run out of Smith's premises and shot, but not seriously. The other night Mrs. Smith met Olney on the street, and after accusing him of having talked about her, gave him a horse-whipping. The fracas attracted a large crowd, and the brothers of Mrs. Smith took a hand. The police finally interfered and arrested all concerned. They will have a hearing before the mayor today.

Held a Turbulent Convention.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 27.—The returns from Elizabeth show that the Democratic county convention in session there Saturday was the most turbulent ever held in this part of the state. Leonard, Capahart's leader, had a fierce altercation, which would have ended in a fight but for the intervention of others. Capahart's friends finally gained control of the convention, although it is expected the delegation will be divided between him and Leonard.

Gardner's Shortage Fixed.

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 27.—Chief Bank Examiner Coffin has made his statement and says that the amount of Cashier Gardner's shortage was $150,000. To resume business the government requires that the capital be immediately restored by a compulsory assessment of 100 per cent on the holdings of all stockholders. In addition to the $50,000 must be raised by voluntary contributions. The bank will probably resume within two weeks.

Fatal Flash of Lightning.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 27.—A single flash of lightning coming from almost a cloudless sky, killed William Carr, aged 20, of this city, who was bathing near the foot of Georgia avenue, and so shocked Mrs. Rachel Faenmer, who was bathing with him, that her condition is extremely critical. The same flash rang the fire alarm, split a telegraph pole and tied up traffic on the electric railroad.

A Car Runs Away.

ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 27.—A car on the electric line of the Suburban Traction company near Eagle Rock, a well-known pleasure resort, ran away and jumped the track. Ten persons are known to have been injured.

CHAPTER XVI.

At 10 o'clock that morning, shortly after a smiling interview with the ladies of Fort Sibley, in which, with infinite spirit and the most perfect self-control, Miss Beaubien had informed them that she had promised to lead with Mr. Jerrold, and since he was in duress she would lead with no one, and sent them off wondering and greatly excited, there came running up to the carriage a telegraph messenger boy, who handed her a dispatch.

"I was going up to the avenue, ma'am," he explained, "but I seen you here."

Nina's face paled as she tore it open and read the curt lines:

"Come to me here. Your help needed instantly."

She sprang from the carriage. "Tell mother I have gone over to see some fort friends—not to wait," she called to the coachman, well knowing he would understand that she meant the ladies with whom she had been so recently talking. Like a frightened deer she sped around the corner, hailed the driver of a cab, lounging with his fellows along the walk, ordered him to drive with all speed to Summit avenue, and with beating heart decided on her plan. Her glorious eyes were flashing; the native courage and fierce determination of her face were working in her woman's heart. She well knew that imminent danger threatened him. She had dared everything for love of his mere presence, his sweet caress. What would she not dare to save him if she could? He had not been true to her. She knew, and knew well, that whether sought or not, Alice Kendrick had been winning him from her, that he was wavering, but with all her soul and strength she loved him, and believed him grand and brave and fine as he was beautiful. Now—now was her opportunity. He needed her. His commission, his honor, depended on her. He had intimated as much the night before—had told her of the accusations and suspicions that attached to him—but made no mention of the photograph.

He had said that, though nothing could drag from him a word that would compromise her, she might be called upon to stand 'twixt him and ruin, and now perhaps the hour had come. She could fawn, exonerate, glorify him, and in doing so claim him for her own. Who, after this, could stand 'twixt her and him? He loved her, though he had been cold, and she? Had he bidden her bow her dusky head to earth and kiss the print of his heel she would have obeyed could she but feel sure that her reward would be a simple touch of his hand, an assurance that no other woman could find a moment's place in his love. Verily, he had been doing desperate woeing in the long winter, for the very depths of her nature were all athrob with love for him. And now she could no longer plead that poverty withheld his offer of his hand. She would soon be mistress of her own little fortune, and at her mother's death an independence. Go to him she would, and on wings of the wind, and go she did. The cab released her at the gate to her home and went back with a double fare that set the driver to thinking. She sped through the house and out the rear doors, much to the amazement of cook and others who were in consultation in the kitchen. She flew down a winding flight of stairs to the level below, and her fairy feet went tripping over the pavement of a plebeian street. A quick turn, and she was at a little second rate stable, whose proprietor knew her and started from his chair. "What's wrong today, Miss Nina?" "I want the roan mare and light buggy again—quick as you can. Your own price at the old terms, Mr. Graves—silence."

He nodded, called to a subordinate and in five minutes handed her into the frail vehicle. An impatient chirrup and flap of the reins, and the roan shot forth into the dusty road, leaving old Graves shaking his head at the door.

"I've known her ever since she was weaned," he muttered, "and she's a wild bird, if ever there was one, but she's never been the like of this till last month."

And the roan mare was covered with foam and sweat when Nina Beaubien drove into the bustling fort, barely an hour after her receipt of Jerrold's telegram. A few officers were gathered in front of headquarters, and there were curious looks from face to face as she was recognized. Mr. Rollins was on the walk, giving some instructions to a sergeant of his company, and never saw her until the buggy reined up close behind him, and turning suddenly he met her face to face as she sprang lightly to the ground. The young fellow reddened to his eyes and would have recoiled, but she was mistress of the situation. She well knew she had but to command, and he would obey, or, at the most, if she could no longer command she had only to implore, and he would be powerless to withstand her entreaty.

"I am glad you are here, Mr. Rollins. You can help me—sergeant, you will kindly hitch my horse at that post?"—now, she added in low, hurried tone, "come with me to Mr. Jerrold's."

Rollins was too stupefied to answer. Silently he placed himself by her side, and together they passed the group at the office. Miss Beaubien nodded with something of her old airiness and coquetry to the cap raising party, but never hesitated. Together they passed along the narrow board walk, followed by curious eyes, and as they reached the angle and stepped beneath the shelter of the piazza in front of the long, low, green blinded bachelors' row there was sudden sensation in the group. Mr. Jerrold appeared at the door of his quarters; Rollins halted some 50 feet away, raised his cap and left her, and all alone, with the eyes of Fort Sibley upon her, Nina Beaubien stepped bravely forward to meet her lover.

They saw him greet her at the door. Some of them turned away, unwilling to look and yet unwilling to go and not understand this new phase of the mystery. Rollins, looking neither to right nor left, repassed them and walked off with a set, savage look on his young face, and then, as one or two still gazed, fascinated by this strange and daring proceeding, others, too, turned back and, half ashamed of themselves for such a yielding to curiosity, glanced furtively over at Jerrold's door.

There they stood—she restrained by her arrest, unable to come forth; she, restrained more by his barring form than by any consideration of maidenly reserve, for, had he bidden, she would have gone within. She had fully made up her mind that wherever he was, even were it behind the sentinels and bars of the guardhouse, she would demand that she be taken to his side. He had handed out a chair, but she would not sit. They saw her looking up into his face as he talked and noted the eager gestulation, so characteristic of his creole blood, that seemed to accompany his rapid words. They saw her bending toward him, looking eagerly up in his eyes and occasionally casting indignant glances over toward the group at the office, as though she would annihilate with her wrath the persecutors of her hero. Then they saw her stretch forth both her hands, with a quick impulsive movement, and grasp his one instant, looking so faithfully, steadfastly, loyally, into his clouded and anxious face. Then she turned, and with quick, eager steps came tripping toward them. They stood irresolute. Every man felt that it was somebody's duty to step forward, meet her and be her escort through the party, but no one advanced. There was, if anything, a tendency to slide toward the office door, as though to leave the sidewalk unimpeded. But she never sought to pass them by. With flashing eyes and crimson cheeks, she bore straight upon them, and with indignant emphasis upon every word accosted them:

"Captain Wilton, Major Sloat, I wish to see Captain Chester at once. Is he in the office?"

"Certainly, Miss Beaubien. Shall I call him, or will you walk in?" And both men were at her side in a moment.

"Thanks. I will go right in—if you will kindly show me to him."

Another moment, and Armitage and

Chester, deep in the midst of their duties and surrounded by clerks and orderlies and assailed by half a dozen questions in one and the same instant, looked up astonished as Wilton stepped in and announced Miss Beaubien, desiring to see Captain Chester on immediate business. There was no time for conference. There she stood in the doorway, and all tongues were hushed on the instant. Chester rose and stepped forward, with anxious courtesy. She did not choose to see the extended hand.

"It is you, alone, I wish to see, captain. Is it impossible here?"

"I fear it is, Miss Beaubien, but we can walk out in the open air. I feel that I know what it is you wish to say to me," he added in a low tone, took his cap from the peg on which it hung and led the way. Again she passed through the curious but respectful group, and Jerrold, watching furtively from his window, saw them come forth.

The captain turned to her as soon as they were out of earshot:

"I have no daughter of my own, my dear young lady, but if I had I could not more thoroughly feel for you than I do. How can I help you?"

The reply was unexpectedly spirited. He had thought to encourage and sustain her, be sympathetic and paternal; but, as he afterward ruefully admitted, he "never did seem to get the hang of a woman's temperament." Apparently sympathy was not the thing she needed.

"It is late in the day to ask such a question, Captain Chester. You have done great wrong and injustice. The question is now, Will you undo it?"

He was too surprised to speak for a moment. When his tongue was unloosed, he said:

"I shall be glad to be convinced I was wrong."

"I know little of army justice or army laws, Captain Chester, but when a girl is compelled to take this step to rescue a friend there is something brutal about them, or the men who enforce them. Mr. Jerrold tells me that he is arrested. I knew that last night, but not until this morning did he consent to let me know that he would be court-martialed unless he could prove where he was the night you were officer of the day two weeks ago and last Saturday night. He is too noble and good to defend himself when by doing so he might harm me. But I am here to free him from the cruel suspicion you have formed." She had quickened her step, and in her impulsiveness and agitation they were almost at the end of the walk. He hesitated, as though reluctant to go along under the piazza, but she was imperious, and he yielded. "No, come!" she said. "I mean that you shall hear the whole truth, and that at once. I do not expect you to understand or condone my conduct, but you must acquit him. We are engaged, and—I love him. He has enemies here, as I see all too plainly, and they have prejudiced notions against him, and she has forbidden my seeing him. I came out to the fort with our knowledge one day, and it angered her. From that time she would not let me see him alone. She watched every movement and came with me wherever I drove. She gave orders that I should never have any of our horses to drive or ride alone—I, whom father had indulged to the utmost and who had ridden and driven at will from my babyhood. She came out to the fort with me that evening for parade and never even agreed to let me go out to see some neighbors until she learned he was to escort Miss Kendrick. She had ordered me to be ready to go with her to Chequamegon the next day, and I would not go until I had seen him. There had been a misunderstanding. I got the Suttons to drive me out while mother supposed me at the Laurents', and Mr. Jerrold promised to meet me east of the bridge and drive in town with us, and I was to send him back in Graves' buggy."

The young men say the assault was entirely unprovoked. Albright says they tried to break into his house.

Got Away With a Pile.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Benjamin and Morris Kraus, constituting the firm of Kraus Brothers, dealers in horses, carriages and harness in Brooklyn and New York, are missing, leaving their creditors to mourn their loss. It is said that they have disposed of nearly $75,000 worth of goods without paying for them.

Tired of the Struggle.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—Driven desperate by family trouble and because he had been stricken with paralysis, Edward C. Hill, Jr., 26 years old, 1937 Bainbridge street, committed suicide by shooting himself in the mouth.

Arrested Entering Belgium.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 27.—De Puisseaux, a socialist, whose name some time ago was sentenced to a term of imprisonment, though he was not present at the trial, has been arrested as he was entering Belgium from France.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Spring Grove is taking on a deserted appearance.

The East End pottery is rapidly nearing completion, and is expected to begin operations before many weeks go by.

The special line for an alarm to the home of Chief Adam was put up today by Electrician Swaney and his force.

Mrs. A. Luther, of New Castle, Pa., who has been visiting friends in this city for several days, returned home this morning.

A dog arrayed in coat and trousers and hauled through the streets by a small boy was one of the sights this morning. It formed the parade of a juvenile circus.

A number of business men say that the trade of Saturday night was the best in a year. It was big pay, and the general public realized how hard the times have been.

It is said that some people from this city have put money into the land and tin mill project at New Lisbon. One man is credited with being a stockholder to the extent of several thousand dollars, while two or three others have each a thousand invested.

The Christian church gave a festival in the rink Saturday night which was attended by a large crowd. Manley's band furnished music during the evening, and the affair proved interesting and profitable, a neat sum being netted.

The funeral of Mrs. Lizzie Faulk, the pioneer resident who died near Calcutta Friday, took place from the Long's Run Presbyterian church at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, with interment in the cemetery there. S. J. Faulk and John Faulk from this city attended the services.

A man with a magic lantern gave an exhibition in the Diamond, Saturday night, having fixed his sheet over the building by Squire Rose's office. He kept a crowd amused for several hours with views of different signs and showing occasionally the advertisement of some merchant on the screen.

Chal Peterson has in his possession a unique pledge. It prohibits the signer from talking of hard times or discussing the tariff and imposes an obligation that he will look on the bright side. The idea has for its object the return of confidence in the government, and thousands are being distributed in the country.

The funeral services over the remains of the late William N. Hinkle took place from the family residence, lower Sixth street, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. General Lyon post, Grand Army, attended the number of about 30, and marched in a body to Riverview cemetery. The remains were interred according to the ritual.

An interesting feature of the Labor Day celebration next Monday will be a tug war between 18 kilnmen at the Laughlin pottery and the same number from the Harker plant. The rivalry between the two forces is enough to prove that this attraction will be doubly important and as usual each side feels confident of winning.

A large number of young men listened to Edward Marsden, the Alaska student at Marietta college, who delivered the address at the Young Men's Christian association meeting yesterday afternoon. The young man proved an interesting talker, and has evidently made rapid advancement since entering college.

General Lyon post is all ready to attend the encampment in Pittsburgh, and will send a strong force next week, every member looking forward to a good time. The railway company give a rate of one fare for the round trip, tickets good for 20 days. Some members of the post will take advantage of the time to spend a few days with friends in that vicinity.

A young lady of this city is said to have been near death as a result of an operation in a Pittsburgh hospital recently. She fortunately recovered and was able to return to the city last week. There is evidently some mystery connected with the affair as the young lady's friends while they do not hesitate to mention the fact positively refuse to reveal her name.

Winnie Mercer is a winner for Washington and as the season progresses is showing in splendid form. Saturday he was the means of taking the game from Chicago, and there will doubtless be other contests for him to win before the year ends. He can play good ball, and with his splendid habits has a career before him. East Liverpool always turns out good men.

Many men went to work in the potteries this morning, and before the week is over will produce a great quantity of ware. All the salesmen who have been in town are hustling for orders, and getting a few. The clay department at one plant went on at an early hour this morning, and work is being pushed everywhere. If it were not for the gloom of fear that trade will not continue as good the city would soon be where it was a few years ago.

JOHN NEWELL IS DEAD

The Noted Railroader Expires at Youngstown, O.

TAKEN ILL ON HIS PRIVATE CAR.

The Lake Shore President on His Way to Cambridgeboro, Pa., for a Few Days' Rest—Mrs. Garfield Reached Him Before He Died—His Career.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27.—John Newell, president and general manager of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad company, died at Youngstown, O., at 2.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon of apoplexy. Mr. Newell was on his way from Pittsburgh to Cambridgeboro, Pa., for a few days rest when he was taken ill. When his special car reached Youngstown he was too ill to proceed further. A physician was called and he was removed to a hotel. He was then sized with apoplexy, his left side being paralyzed. Physicians were summoned from this city and Pittsburgh, but they could do nothing for him. His daughter, Mrs. James R. Garfield of Mentor, was called by telegraph, and she reached her father's bedside at noon, with her brother, John E. Newell of Cleveland. He was still conscious at that time, but could not speak. Death came painlessly two and a half hours later. Mrs. Newell and another daughter are on their way from Northampton, Mass., and Mr. Newell's son, A. H. Newell, superintendent of the western division of the Lake Shore road, has been summoned from New York.
No arrangements for the funeral have yet been made. The body was brought to Cleveland this morning on a special train and was met here by Mrs. Newell and the other members of the family, after which it was taken to Chicago, in which city the funeral will be held.
Mr. Newell was 64 years of age. He entered the railway service in 1846 as a roadman and was afterward assistant engineer of the Central Vermont railroad. In 1851 he worked on the extension of the Champlain and St. Lawrence railroad, and in 1852-3 he surveyed the routes of railroads from Louisville to Cincinnati and from Saratoga to Sackett's Harbor, N. Y. In 1855 he was engineer on the old Cairo City railroad, and from 1856 to 1865 engineer of maintenance of way of the Illinois Central railroad. From 1865 to 1868 he was president of the Cleveland and Toledo railroad, now a part of the Lake Shore, and during the next succeeding year, engineer and superintendent of the New York Central. From 1869 to 1871 he was vice president of the Illinois Central and for three years after that president of the same road. In 1875 he became general manager of the Lake Shore, and since 1888 he has been both president and general manager of the same road. At the time of his death he was also president of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie and Toledo and Ohio Northern railroads.

Fight With Desperados in Chicago.
CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Two desperados held up a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul freight train just over the county line Saturday, killed a detective, robbed the conductor and escaped. Officer McGrath was probably fatally shot while trying to catch them, and a force of police and civilians only captured them in a woods after the exchange of a hundred shots and a six hours' chase.
One of the men has been identified as H. F. Griswold, a well-to-do insurance inspector, who played bandit for the pure love of it. His accomplice and tool was a poor laborer named Lake. Both were wounded.

Sipe Claims to Have Won.
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27.—The primaries of the Allegheny county Democratic Saturday were lively, and by night there were the usual amount of battered heads. It is difficult to size up the results, as changes are expected before the conventions which meet tomorrow. It seems pretty certain that Congressman Sipe will get a full delegation for re-nomination in the Twenty-fourth district despite the hot combination fight that was made on him. Sipe claims 90 delegates out of the 117 that compose the congressional convention.

Nebraska G. A. R. Encampment.
GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Aug. 27.—The annual Grand Army state encampment opens here to-day. The city is crowded with veterans. One thousand tents are occupied in camp. The attendance is expected to reach 20,000. The Populist and Republican state nominees will discuss politics during the week.

Few Cholera Cases.
LONDON, Aug. 26.—A dispatch to The Times from Vienna says that for the week ending Saturday there were 148 new cases of cholera and 79 deaths from the disease in Galicia. In Bukovina 16 new cases and 15 deaths were reported.

Pleaded For Breckinridge.
LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 27.—George O. Barnes, the well-known evangelist, delivered a sermon here Sunday night in which he begged all Christians to vote for Colonel Breckinridge. It created a tremendous sensation.

Sickles Wants a Park.
NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—General Daniel E. Sickles has a scheme for the creation of a grand national park, which will include the battlefield and other historic points of interest at Gettysburg.

On His Way to Washington.
CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—S. Kuroki, the new minister from Japan to this country, has passed through the city on his way to Washington.

A Famous Widow.
One of the most famous widows of antiquity was Agrippina, the widow of Germanicus. During the lifetime of her husband she attended him in all his campaigns and shared his dangers. Suspecting that her husband had been poisoned, she had his presumed murderer assassinated and was herself soon after treated with such indignity by Tiberius that she was driven to despair and starved herself to death.

Hi Henry Coming.
J. C. Knapp, advance agent for the Hi Henry minstrel troupe, called on Manager Orr, of the Grand, to arrange for the appearance of the show at the opera house Sept. 5.

My boy was taken with a disease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquiries regarding it when stamp is inclosed. I refer to any county official as to my reliability. Wm. Roach, J. P., Primroy, Campbell Co., Tenn. For sale by A. H. Will Picnic Tomorrow.

The First Methodist Episcopal Sunday school will picnic in the East End tomorrow. Owing to the great size of the organization an immense crowd will be present.

Kenneth Hazmore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place. Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhoea, colic or cholera, morbidly give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

—N. D. Ferguson and sister, Mrs. T. B. Dodds, of Wheeling, and Mrs. J. D. Orr, of Brookville, Pa., returned home this morning after a pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Ferguson, Broadway.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.
